Performance Commentary

The illegal Russian military invasion of Ukraine overshadowed all macro events in February and put downward pressure on global equity markets. Russia faces nearly universal condemnation for this unjustified attack that triggered unprecedented financial sanctions crushing the rouble and share prices of Russian companies. SKAGEN Global does not own any Russian stocks and has not done so since 2015 due to our assessment of the political risk. We believe the current war in Ukraine is likely to have widespread implications across many dimensions in coming years. SKAGEN Global underperformed the benchmark in February. The fund's top absolute performer was the heart disease equipment provider Edwards Lifesciences. The worst performer in absolute terms was the US tax and accounting software firm Intuit. We will comment on portfolio trading activity, if any, at quarter end. SKAGEN Global is attractively valued for long-term investors and we see material upside in the portfolio over the next few years.

The fund selects undervalued companies from around the world, including emerging markets, with attractive risk-reward for long-term investors. The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return. The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The fund has risk profile 6. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.
