

Performance Commentary

November was a strong month for global equity markets on the back of encouraging COVID-19 vaccine trials and the return of risk appetite following the US election. Tentative signs of a rotation towards value benefitted SKAGEN Kon-Tiki, which outperformed its benchmark by a wide margin. The fund's top contributors were our investments in the memory industry, Samsung Electronics and Micron. We believe we are in the early stages of an upcycle that should drive further upside. Ping An Insurance rebounded on the expectation of improved operating momentum in 2021 while the recent weakness in Atlantic Sapphire proved short-lived. UPL was weak at the start of the month due to the auditor resignation at its Mauritius subsidiary. We do not consider this a material issue and have seen the shares recover most of the loss already. Naspers was held back by weakness in the tech sector due to the rotation towards value. We added two new energy positions in November as we see positive demand implications from a COVID-19 vaccine. We also invested in Indonesian media company MNC, which has suffered a material de-rating due to the cyclical nature of its advertising income and elevated financial leverage at its parent group. With no exits in the month, our portfolio now consists of 48 holdings trading on 10x 2021 P/E and 1.0x P/B.

The fund selects low-priced, high-quality companies, mainly in emerging economies.

The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return.

The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
