Investment strategy

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki is a value-based emerging markets equity fund. It seeks to generate long-term capital growth through an actively managed, high conviction portfolio of companies which are listed in, or have significant exposure to, developing markets. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.

Cost information

For explanation of the overall impact of costs on the investment and expected returns please refer to the Key Information Document.

Ongoing cost: 2,00 % (Of which management fee is: 2,00 %)

Performance fee: 10,00 % (see prospectus for details)

Risk profile (SRI)

We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets. A medium risk class rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level. Other risks materially relevant to the PRIIP not included in the summary risk indicator: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk and currency risk. If the fund invests in securities in a currency other than the fund's base currency, the value is affected by changes in the exchange rate. In addition, the value of your payout may be affected if your local currency is different from the fund's currency. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

Portfolio manager commentary, May 2026

Global equity markets rose in May, led by technology stocks, as investors continued to reward companies exposed to datacentre capital spending. The strongest gains were concentrated in parts of the semiconductor, hardware and infrastructure supply chains. Emerging Markets equities outperformed Developed Markets by a wide margin, helped by their greater exposure to several of the key beneficiaries of this investment cycle. Overall, market leadership remained narrow, with AI-linked companies continuing to drive regional and sector performance.

The three strongest performers in May were Samsung Electronics, Hon Hai and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company (TSMC), all of which benefited from the AI-driven rallies in Korea and Taiwan. TSMC reported April sales growth of 21 percent year on year in US dollar terms. Hon Hai reported better-than-expected first-quarter results and reiterated its positive outlook for AI server rack shipments. At

Hon Hai's annual general meeting, the chair highlighted the company's ability to increase the share of in-house components in its server rack deliveries.

On the negative side, the three weakest performers in May were the financial institutions Hana Financial in Korea, Ping An in China and Banco do Brasil. The latter reported weaker-than-expected first-quarter results and lowered its full-year 2026 guidance because of higher credit costs.

Portfolio activity remained high in May, although there were no new positions or exits. Following strong share price performance, we reduced our positions in Samsung Electronics and LG Electronics. We also continued to sell TSMC to comply with regulatory requirements. The proceeds were used to continue scaling up our investments in Tencent Music and Ivanhoe Mines. We also added to Prosus, Naspers, Axis Bank, Samsonite, JD.com and Suzano following relative share price weakness, with the aim of improving the portfolio's overall characteristics.

At month-end, the portfolio traded at less than 9x earnings and 1.3x book value, compared with 13x earnings and 2.5x book value for the MSCI Emerging Markets Index. As a result, the portfolio retains attractive absolute and relative value characteristics despite the market re-rating. In an environment where index returns remain concentrated and increasingly sentiment-driven, we believe disciplined, price-driven rebalancing and bottom-up stock selection remain the most reliable path to sustained outperformance, particularly during periods of heightened geopolitical volatility.

Sustainability

SKAGEN's approach to sustainability

Our ESG approach is built on four pillars. In keeping with SKAGEN's active investment philosophy, our sustainability activities centre on active engagement with our holding companies, which is where we believe we can have the greatest impact. We recognise, however, that the full potential of a sustainable investment strategy is best realised when combining the following four pillars.

- ✓ Exclusion
- ✓ Enhanced due diligence
- ✓ ESG factsheet
- ✓ Active ownership

Article 8

Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR)

The product promotes environmental and social characteristics by directing its capital towards companies and issuers that meet defined ESG (environmental, social and governance) criteria. This is achieved through compliance with international norms and conventions, by taking into account negative impacts on sustainable development (PAI) and through product- or activity-based exclusions. See the prospectus for more information on the products sustainability characteristics.
