

Performance Commentary

October was a strong absolute month for SKAGEN m2 as the US real estate market performed much more strongly than the European and Asian markets. Overall, third quarter reports showed strength in logistics in particular. The office space was less strong and is lagging the recovery on a global basis. Inflationary pressure continues to create volatility, but will over time be beneficial for real assets. One of the fund's best performers during the month was Norwegian Self Storage Group after a weaker performance in September. Swedish logistics operator Catena was another positive contributor after a solid report. All the logistics operators in the portfolio reported strong numbers, especially US-based Prologis. The fund's largest detractor was Brazilian logistics operator Log, despite its solid report, due to the declining macro environment. We sold out of French holding Icade on the back of the failed and postponed IPO. We also exited Chinese CR Land due to the worsening situation in the Chinese housing market. We added another office name, US Hudson Pacific Properties, which has assets mainly on the west coast. SKAGEN m2 continues to focus on investing in resilient companies in trend-driven subsegments, companies that we consider mispriced and that may benefit from economic recovery or companies that are well positioned for inflation.

The fund gives access to a normally inaccessible global real estate market. The fund selects low-priced, high-quality real estate companies from around the world. The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return. The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
