Investment strategy

SKAGEN Vekst invests in companies that are attractively priced relative to expected profitability and growth. The majority of the fund is invested in the Nordic region and the remainder worldwide. The fund is suitable for investors with a minimum five-year investment horizon. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark. Effective 01.01.2014, the fund's investment mandate changed from investing a minimum of 50% of its assets in Norway to investing a minimum of 50% of its assets in the Nordic countries. This means that returns prior to the change were achieved under different circumstances than they are today.

Monthly commentary, May 2023

The global stock market posted overall negative returns in May, even though strong AI driven tech stock performance pushed US markets higher. The Nordic market was negative overall driven by weakness in all countries.

SKAGEN Vekst underperformed the benchmark index slightly during the month. The US technology company Broadcom was the largest contributor to the fund's absolute return in May. The company is the market share leader in leading edge custom chip designs. Significant investment in AI by key clients like Google, Apple, Facebook, and Microsoft is expected to accelerate orders in this business. We used the strength to reduce our position, but the stock continues to be a key holding in SKAGEN Vekst.

The largest detractor to fund performance was Telenor which was down around ten percent following very strong performance from January to April. No major news drove the share price decline as Q1 results were generally in line with expectations, but the strong run has likely triggered some profit taking. Even after the strong performance Telenor still offers an expected dividend yield of around 8% which we find attractive.

We reduced our position in Salmar due to very strong recent performance. The Norwegian government announced at the end of May that they had secured a majority in parliament in favour of a 25% ground rent tax for salmon farming. The final (so far) tax rate will thus be down from the last proposal of 35%. This was very positive for salmon stocks and we now have just a minor position left in Salmar. The Finnish communications technology company Nokia entered the fund towards the end of the month. The stock has performed poorly over the last few years as the hype around 5G has faded somewhat and growth and margins have been weaker than expected. At the same time the company has been successful in gaining market share in 5G over the last few years and holds a strong position as one of the leading technology companies in communications infrastructure equipment. Nokia has also indicated a stronger focus on cash conversion and increased shareholder returns going forward. The market does not seem to put much faith in this, however, and we believe the current valuation presents an attractive entry point.

We continue to favour attractively priced companies within the financial, industrial, and energy sectors. These are also sectors where earnings expectations and valuation will not be unduly hurt in an environment where inflation does not return to the abnormally low levels we saw in the aftermath of the pandemic.

Sustainability

SKAGEN's approach to sustainability

Our ESG approach is built on four pillars. In keeping with SKAGEN's active investment philosophy, our sustainability activities centre on active engagement with our holding companies, which is where we believe we can have the greatest impact. We recognise, however, that the full potential of a sustainable investment strategy is best realised when combining the following four pillars.

- ✓ Exclusion
- ✓ Enhanced due diligence
- ✓ ESG factsheet
- ✓ Active ownership
