Investment strategy

SKAGEN Focus Lux is a high conviction equity fund that seeks to generate long-term capital growth by investing in a portfolio of global companies with a bias towards small and mid-cap stocks. The fund is actively managed and applies a contrarian and price-driven investment process to create a portfolio which typically trades at a steep discount to the broader market based on traditional valuation metrics.

Risk profile (SRI)

We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets. A medium risk class rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level. Other risks materially relevant to the PRIIP not included in the summary risk indicator: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk and currency risk. If the fund invests in securities in a currency other than the fund's base currency, the value is affected by changes in the exchange rate. In addition, the value of your payout may be affected if your local currency is different from the fund's currency. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.

Portfolio manager commentary, April 2026

Global equity markets approached new record levels in April, driven by a powerful rebound in technology- and semiconductor stocks as investors once again crowded into AI-linked winners despite ongoing geopolitical uncertainty and elevated energy prices.

The fund also delivered a solid return during the month, although performance lagged the broader market somewhat due to our more diversified exposure. Our strongest contributors were Siltronic, KCC and Lenovo. German silicon wafer maker Siltronic rallied as the market now prices in improving demand conditions, particularly within AI-driven server demand. We reduced the position as the shares moved closer to our target price.

South Korean conglomerate KCC continued to re-rate as investors increasingly recognised the deep discount embedded in its holding structure alongside improving underlying fundamentals. Lenovo also performed strongly on solid operational momentum despite concerns over rising memory-related input costs, and we trimmed the position.

We exited our position in South Korean construction equipment producer Doosan Bobcat after the shares reached our target price. The investment case benefitted from improving operational execution and increased market focus on activist-driven value creation initiatives.

The fund's main detractor in April was Mexican logistics and transportation company Traxion. While revenue growth remained solid, profitability was impacted by weakness in the cargo mobility segment and the market still struggles with the lack of improving demand visibility. During the month, we continued to add to our newly initiated position in US reinsurer Everest Group and established a core position in German travel provider TUI, using recent share price weakness to build the position as we believe the current valuation fails to reflect the company's improved balance sheet and normalised earnings power.

Sustainability

SKAGEN's approach to sustainability

Our ESG approach is built on four pillars. In keeping with SKAGEN's active investment philosophy, our sustainability activities centre on active engagement with our holding companies, which is where we believe we can have the greatest impact. We recognise, however, that the full potential of a sustainable investment strategy is best realised when combining the following four pillars.

- ✓ Exclusion
- ✓ Enhanced due diligence
- ✓ ESG factsheet
- ✓ Active ownership

Article 8

Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR)

The product promotes environmental and social characteristics by directing its capital towards companies and issuers that meet defined ESG (environmental, social and governance) criteria. This is achieved through compliance with international norms and conventions, by taking into account negative impacts on sustainable development (PAI) and through product- or activity-based exclusions. See the prospectus for more information on the products sustainability characteristics.
